

SEA DOG

Bozo joined the Navy but doesn't see much of the world between ports. A Dog First Class, he serves as mascot aboard the U.S. submarine Blenny.

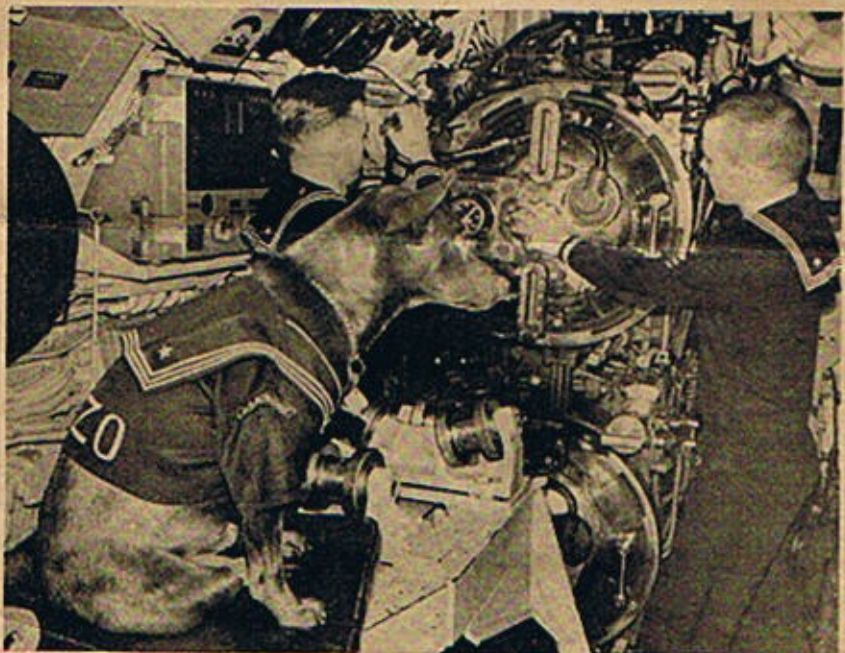

He has been an American tar ever since a sailor bought him in a Yokosuka, Japan, saloon four years ago for about 30 cents.

The Blenny hits port and Bozo seems just as anxious for shore leave as any tar.

Bozo follows pointing finger of Blenny skipper, Lt. Comdr. David Blumberg. Though he owes first loyalty to his captain, B. is special pet of Lt. Edward Kessler (l.).

Ever alert, the mixed police dog-terrier oversees the operations of George Stanley (l.) and James Chadwick as they run through practice drill in forward torpedo room.
